

Web servers, located at the National Technology Center (NTC), are moving to CAP NHQ (Maxwell AFB, AL) on Wednesday, 11 April 2012. This will be done in two stages. First, the online testing system will be taken down on Monday, 9 April, at 6:00 AM EDT. The tests affected will be:

- Spaatz Testing
- Senior Specialty Track Exams
- Aerospace Education Program for Senior Members (Yeager) Exam
- Cadet Orientation Quiz (Glider)
- CAP Basic Instructor Course Exam
- CAPP 221 (A, B, & C) End of Course Exams
- CAPT 116 General Emergency Services (GES) Exam
- CAPT 117 ES Continuation Education Exam Parts 1 – 3
- FRO On-line Course Exam
- GA-8 Course Exams
- Maule Familiarization Course Exams
- NCPSC – Glider Exam
- Satellite Digital Imaging System Exam
- Skills Evaluator Training Exam
- SSF/CAP Tow Pilot Course
- Wing Runner Test

The remaining NTC web systems (WMIRS, Communications, NESAs Registration, etc.) will be taken down at 12:01 AM EDT, 11 April. Once all the data is moved and the systems tested, they will be put online and links in eServices to the new locations will be updated. The new web addresses (URL) will be:

<https://missions.cap.af.mil/> will become <https://missions.capnhq.gov>

<https://tests.cap.af.mil/> will become <https://tests.capnhq.gov>

All pages at <https://ntc.cap.af.mil/> will move to <https://missions.capnhq.gov/> except the Communications pages. The Communications pages will be at <https://comm.capnhq.gov/>

All systems should be online by noon EDT on Wednesday, 11 April 2012. We will work with the AFRCC and 1st Air Force to be sure they have the current alert rosters for all wings and missions will continue during this time. Questions should be directed to the National Operations Center at 888-211-1812 ext. 300 or opscenter@capnhq.gov
